

“Thank You”

Friends,

I’m sure it comes as no surprise to many of you, but I am not a student of social graces. I don’t know what to do when there is more than one fork at a place setting. I don’t know what RSVP means. And I have never written a thank you note in my life. My mother raised my sister and I to be polite and kind, but Emily Post I am not.

Suddenly, though, I find myself sitting in front of a stack of thank you cards (which will be in the mail soon, I promise). Y’all have given me so much to be thankful for recently and I want to recognize each of you, but for fear of leaving anyone out I would like to offer my thanks here, as well.

Thank you so much for your financial gifts. So many of you have been so incredibly generous. Your generosity is beyond words. Your gifts have been a huge help to us and a relief to our family as we figure out our next steps.

Thank you for the cards that we received from you two Sundays ago, as well as the cards and letters you have sent since January. I have been reading and re-reading them over the last couple of weeks. As I read them, I am constantly reminded of your graciousness and care.

Thank you for your kind words. I had the opportunity to speak with a number of you over the last few months and y’all have been a constant source of encouragement and support to our family.

Thank you for your friendship the last seven years. Thank you for sharing your lives with us, for letting us love your children, and for loving ours in return. Your friendship is precious to me and I will miss y’all dearly.

You have given our family so much to be thankful for. You have our deepest love and undying gratitude.

Dave Oakley
